ANGLO-CHINESE CALENDAR MANUAL.

Handbook of reference for the determination of Chinese Dates, during the period from 1860 to 1869; with comparative Tables of Annual and Mensual Designations. &c., &c. Compiled by WILLIAM FREDE-BICK MAYERS, H.M.C.S.

Author's Preface. Most persons whose avocations or studies are connected even remotely with Chinese subjects are wont to confess the need of a convenient manual of reference for the purpose of determining dates according tirely Refurnished, will be RE-OPENED either the European or the Chinese method of computation; and a system of comparison for the names attributed to years, months, and other periods is also frequently a desideratum with translators and readers of Chinese literature. The compiler of the following tables has thought, accordingly, that their publication in convenient form may prove useful, although Ships of 1, 200 Tons or under, and all much yet remains to be done for the elabowork connected therewith, as also in ration of comparative calendars, etc. that should leave nothing to be desired. With the exception of the Cyclical Table Years, and the Table of Solar Terms, both ropean Superintendence. The SLIP has of which were originally compiled by Dr. Morrison, and afterwards republished with improvements in Williams' Commercial (Juide, from which (with some alteration) therity as equal to any existing works of they are now copied, the whole of the matter assembled in the following pages is for the first time made accessible to general nal, &c., supplied on moderate terms. RESOLUTIONS OF THE SILK

DEALERS OF CANTON. THE following Resolutions on the part of the native Silk-dealers of Canton, which the Proclamation of the 22nd January, have been recently notified, are of con-1864, and no other Coins, but those siderable interest to those engaged or given in change as fractional parts | the Silk trade, from their reference to the mysterious cases of robbery occurring from time to time in alk shipped from Canton. The perpetrators of these thefts have hitherto baffled all attempts at detection, but a large reward has been offered for information that may lead to an exposure of the system, and as the native vendors appear to be alarmed lest their own interests should suffer, it may be hoped that a stop will now be put to the vexatious practice. Resolutions agreed to by the silk dealers of Canton, annexed to petition presented by the representatives of Forty firms to H. B. M. Consul on the 25th May 1869. 1. On purchases of Silk being made by the foreign Customers of the Undersigned after being duly selected, inspected, and approved, the Silk shall be weighed in the presence of buyer and seller, and sent to the purchaser's godown, where on being weighed again, delivery shall be taken, and the silk be thereupon packed either in bales or bales or cases as the purchaser may desire. After being thus delivered in the presence of both parties, the Silk shall be at the purchaser's risk, and the seller shall be free from all responsibility for subsequent deficioncy of weight, theft, substitution, do, in the course of transit. 2. The dealers in Silk being prepared as above stated to deliver silk at purchasers godowns, to be there reweighed, da, if purchasers decline on the score of insufficient storage accommodation to accept delivery in this manner, and call upon the seller to pack the silk in his own warehouse, the seller will request the purchaser to be present either personally or by such representative as he may appoint to witness the process of weighing and packing the silk, either in bales or boxes, whereupon the merchandize will be placed at the purchaser's disposal, and he will make arrangements for passing it through the Custom House and effecting its shipment These steps being taken in presence of both parties, obviating all possibility of shortcoming, in the event of any loss being discovered on the arrival of the silk at its destination, there will be no doubt that such must have occurred in transitu, and the purchaser must absolve the seller from all responsibility or liability to make compensation. In order to guard seeinst future claims, the above Resolutions are hereby notined.

THE TRADE OF CANTON. COMPLAINTS of the decadence of trade at Canton have become so stereotyped that any attempt to demonstrate that matters are not quite so bad as they are thought to be is apt to be received with incredulity. We have, however, been furnished by a painstaking correspondent with some comparative tables of the Imports and Exports at that port for 1868-9, which go very far to confute the gloomy forebodings which the taipans put forth, consequent on the establishment of the "blockade" in the vicinity of this colony. It will be observed that with the exception of a fulling off in the quantity of Cotton, there is nothing else to complain of 85 far as the carrying trade on the river concerned, which is the same now as it was before, and ever shall be. Consequently, the remark that "the place is going to the dogs," and such like in the strain of sic transit, &c., which one heart made in reference to this place, are not borne out by facts, which are stubborn things to get over. If the speculators in Orange Pekoes and Capers, having burn their fingers badly last year, keep out of the market (hence a doing-nothing see son), that is not Canton's fault. The following are Comparative State ments of Imports and Exports, into and from Canton, by the H. C. and M. Steam boat Company's vessels, from 1st January to 31st May in 1868 and 1869. Imported from 1st January to 81st

SUPREME COURT. Before his Lordship Judge SMALE.

June 4. 1869. WARES AND OTHERS O. LUM TOR KEE. Motion for a New Trial Mr Pollardi Q C. Instructed by Mr Cald well who appeared for the plaintiffs. applied for a rule nist calling upon defendants to show cause why a new trial in the above case should not be granted. The learned Q.C. based his application upon various grounds. Firstly, there had been at the n evidence of the letter written by the Sin thien weigher that letter having nothin to do with the case. Secondly, his Lord ship had inisdirected the Jury in tellin them that law tong did not mean raw o pure sugar Thirdly, that the C. J. ought to have directed the Jury, if satisfied from boiling of the came juice, they ought then to have regarded the evidence of the experts as applicable to the case; and that upon the lafter evidence the meaning of law tong a given in the declaration was fully proved Fourthly, the C. J. bad been guilty of another misdirection in that he had told the Jury that as plaintiffs had had an opportunity of inspection at Sinchuen, the princi ple of the maxim careat emptor applied to

O The Chief Instice said he did not remember having used the words thus imputed to him : he said nothing whatever about careat

Mr Pollard replied that this was the purport of what his Lordship said, though the exact words might not have been used --(Reference was here made to Mr Brereton's short hand notes) Mr Pollard continued to say that at least his impression was that the Jury had so understood; had not this been so, he would not have interrupted hi Lordship as he did during the charge to the Jury ; he was, as he said at the time, afraid the Court might be betrayed into saying what it did not mean. The O. J. observed that he must have lost his senses had he said so Mr P. here read part of the notes taken by Mr Brereton bearing poon the question in dispute, in which the U. J. was reported to have said to the Jury that the contract was not for raw sugar at all.

The O. J. said he would go upon Mu Brereton's version, if consented to by both

Mr Pollard continued. Fifthly, the O J. had misdirected, inasmuch as he lef with the Jury as proven matters which were not proyed at all : maying that the sugar was improperly gracked, builed, or skimmud. His Lordship had used "we" and our," thus identifying himself with th defendant's view of the case ! he summed up in favor of defendant The O. J. said certainly he did; he had no doubt of that, and he was ready to take the responsibility of so doing. Mr Pollard resumed. Bixthly, even supposing that the angar had been improperly boiled orushed or skimmed, the U. had misdirected the Jury in not stating that the plaintiffs had a right to a verdict, in that defendant, being a manufacturer of sugar, ought to have worked the sugar properly previous to delivery but his Lordship could not assume sululteration tales mixture or adulteration was proved. Seventhly, his Lordship had misdirected by saying to the Jury that lau tong was nothing more or less than pot sugar. Righthly, his Lordship ought to have told the Jury (and that was non-direction) that there was no evidence to show that the sugar was different from that made at that the verdict was arainst the weight of many of the vituence, and sugar supplied been shown to be keet tong Tentily, defendant could have produced the men who made and delivered the stuff while plaintiffs could not; that his Lord ship had refused to put that to the Jury. as an element in the case, and which ought o have been considered in favor of the olaintiffs. Kleventhly, that his Lordshir erayely misdirected the Jury when he laid down that if defendant obtained a verdict fourth count. Twelfthly, as his Lordship had said that sugar not entering into the action had been taken back by defendant under circumstances which would make this formed another misdirection. Thirteenthly, as defendant had only pleaded ever indebted while the plaintiffs had proved their claim in the fourth county the

tion. Upon these grounds he asked for the rule to show cause why a new trial should His Lordship having remarked that this wall possibly the largest list of errors Mr Pollard had ever presented, said that he was inclined to grant the rule. There was of course a certain amount of responsibili

A SPANISH ORATOR The Madrid correspondent of the Lon don Morning Herald, writing ander date April 17, makes the following reference to an orator who has arisen in Spain. and who seems to be of the calibre of John Bright:

In my last I gave, you an extract from Senor Castelar's great speech on the proposed reconstitution Powerful # as that speech was, it has been completely eclipsed by one he delivered on Monday afternoon. which has certainly raised bint to a pinnaof popularity seldom attained by any public man in so short a space of time.

the more extraordinary as it unpremeditated, being in the shape reply to a long speech delivered immedi before it by one of the dignitaries clerical party, Senor Manterola, the Canon of Victoria .- Castelar's masterly reply has taken the whole country storm. In the streets, in the clubs, in the committee-rooms of the Congress, in the railway trains, and in the press, scarcely anything else is talked about. It is even contemplated by some of the deputies to bring in a motion for its publication and distribution throughout the country at the ublic expense. Its peroration was certainly one of the finest and most effective oratorical efforts to which I have ever lis tened, and produced the most extraordi nary effect upon the entire Cortes. & When he sat down he was instantly surrounded by the members of the Republican Left who shook his hands and embraced him in the hand Spanish manner, amidst the most deafening applause from all sides of the notice and from the galleries above. But this was not all. Beveral of the Ministers rose from the "banco asul." and, grossing almost the whole of the majority, and were equally demonstrative as the Republicans They grasped and shook his hands till one would have thought the arms would drop out of their sockets they embraced and hugged him, and many of them in their excitement kissed him! It was a never-tobe-forgotten scene. To crown all, the stoical Rivero, the President of the Assembly, whose election to that high office is due to his persistent advocacy of the monarchical principle, which it is the chief pride and pleasure of Casteler to combat could not resist the general outburst of feeling. When the applause and the scene I have described had lasted fully ten minutes, seeing how impossible it would have been to restore anything like order, he rang not what they do l' Great is the religion the Pontiff added, ! The next moment I saw him not only clasp the gifted orator in his arms, but actually kiss him on each cheek! Nor was the excitement confined to the deputies below. It extended itself to the galleries above, which, especially the diplomatic and the bress tribunes, were crammed. They, too, juined in the applause. The news soon spread outside, and a dense crowd speedily spread through the neighbourhood of the building to have a look at Castelar as he

Mr Hunt's paper was and he must have known that it would be a new and dangerous doctring to hold that the reprinter of a libellous article was saved from harm by giving the name of the paper from which he quoted.

Mr Martineau, who appeared for Mr Hunt, said that as soon as a complaint was made to him he published an ample apology in his newspaper. Under those circumstances he ought not to be made to pay the costs of this motion. In the Tichborne case. Vice-Chancellor Wood made no order as to costs in the case of the Times and the Morning Advertiser, which merely reprinted articles, which were complained of in that case, from the Pall Mail Gazette.

The Vice-Chancellor said the articles which were originally published in the Weekly Register were clearly of an improper character, and calculated acriquely to impede the administration of justice. That was felt so strongly by the proprietors of that paper that they had with great propriety of feeling and spirit by their counsel at the bar at once offered to pay the costs of the motion, and to make an apology to the court, and as far as they could they had put Miss Saurin in the same position as she would have been in if those articles had never been published. With regard to the Eastern Morning News, a poppy a per published every morning at Hull, the proprietor of that paper was in a very different position. Country papers copied from the London papers passages which they thought were of public interest, but the court thought it was important that the proprietors of all papers should know that those who conducted publications must exercise a discretion, and that if they republished articles of an improper character they would do so at their own peril. He was unable to accede to the general proposition that a newspaper which reprinted libellous matter from another newspaper could do so with impunity. He thought that justice would be done in this case by ordering Mr Hunt to pay the costs til Saturday last (the day on which the notice of motion was served—the apology was published on Monday morning) and the costs of this application.

MISCELLANEOUS. COUNT BISMARK IN BARLY LIFE, -From the University Bismark passed into the Civil Service. He was first employed in the department of Justice at Berlin. While acting in a very subordinate capacity as minute-writer, he showed the same spirit as had marked his academical course, and was detined still more to mark his career as Prime Minister. He was taking down the statements of a man summoned before one of his superior officers, and grew so indignant at the man's coolness that he sprang up and said, "If you don't behave better I'll kick you out of the room." The superior, who was present, tapped Bismarck on the shoulder, and said, "turning a man out of the room is my affair." Presently a new cause for complaint was given, and Bismarck sprang up again, exclaiming, "If you don't behave better, I'll make my superior kick you out of the room." This was not the only time that Bismarck laid down the law in this way. Once when he was in society with the President of his office, and felt that he was being slighted by that high functionary, he w told him that, whatever might be their respective places in the service. Herr von Biamarck was quite as good a man in society as Her von-. Another superior walked to the window and drummed on it with his fingers while Bismarck was waiting. Bismarck was resolved not to be outdone or to have his presence ignored, so he went to the other window and struck up a louder tune. Being kept in the ante-room for more than an hour by the same superior and then being asked curtly what he wanted Bismarck replied, "I came to ask for leave. but now I request my dismissal." Bismarck's first presentation to Prince William of Prussia, who was afterwards to be King of Prussia, to make him Minister, and to be made by him King of Germany, took place while the future Chancellor of the League was a young clerk in the Civil Service. One of h s colleagues was presented with him, and as both the young men were some six feet high, the Prince exclaimed. "It seems that justice chooses her servants by the Guarda' standard." If it must be pleasant for both King and Minister to be reminded of that passage in their lives, Count Bismark may look with pride to another incident of somewhat later date. The only order that he had earned for The case of Miss Saurin and Mrs. Star | many years was the medal of a society ansafe ashore, is a new scene in the life of the Prussian Premier .- "Athensum." (From the "Strasts Times," July 27, 1868.) Some time ago we had occasion to remark upon the progress that Literature as represented by the Press had made and was making in the East; and our attention has again been called to the subject by the receipt of a Hongkong publication which deserves some notice and which we have much pleasure in introducing to the knowledge of our readers. We allude to Notes and Queries on (hing and Japan, published monthly by Mr Saint, the proprietor of the China Mail newspaper. This publication is well printed on good paper, and in size and shape is very like its well-known namesake or prototype at home, and is equally a mine containing very curious and useful information regarding the language, literature, history, manners and customs of the Chinese and in a less degree of the Japanese. It says a good deal for the extent and stability of the footing of Europeans in China, that such a publication as this should be established and conducted with apparently successful vivour. The publication is altogether a very interesting one, and wishing it every success, we commend it to the attention and support of our readers. (From the "Friend of India," June 4, 1868.) We acknowledge with thanks the receipt of the numbers for the current year of "Notes and Queries," a most deserving Anglo-Chinese monthly, edited by Mr N. B. Dennys, whose "Treaty Ports of Chins and Japan" are so well known. From the names attached to the "Notes" we can see that the contributors include some of the best Chinese scholars in the East. Its inerest is not confined to China, and it will e of valuable assistance to all scholars, who ave directed their attention towards the ubject of Buddhism and its literature, and renerally to all who are interested in orintal antiquities. It deserves to be better nown in India. (From the "London Examiner," May

This really useful volume ["Treaty Ports China and Japan "] is intended as a guide for travellers and residents in China and Japan, and as a book of reference for mercantile men generally. It contains an account, historical and political, of all the pen ports of these countries, together with Peking, Yedo, Hongkong, and Macao. has been carefully compiled and edited by Mr N. B. Denpys: and the elaborate maps and plans, with which the work abounds. considerably enhance its value. * * *

We have thus given in outline some of the more prominent partions of the chapter levoted to Canton, as a specimen of the whole volume. Other chapters treating of Macao, Formosa, Ningpo, Shanghao, and the remaind r of the treaty ports, we can only enumerate. The pages describing Peking, the capital, are so interesting, and contain so much that is new to European 1.—Pilot Boats shall be registered with readers respecting its history, public buildings, and general characteristics, that we A complete and intelligible plan of the Imerial City and neighbourhood, gives us an ecurate notion of the relative position of its divisions, streets, and places.

in the introductory chapter to the notices of the Treaty Ports of Japan will be found a succinct history of that Empire, together with remarks on its government, geography, and limits, which will be found particularly interesting as throwing a considerable light on a part of the world so long entirely, and till comparatively, unlike we to Europeans
